Dear Sir/Madam

RE: ROBOTIC MILKING SYSTEM LAUNCH

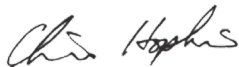

The Board of Scott Technology Limited (Scott) advises that its joint venture, Scott Milktech Limited (SML) will hold an invitation only media and industry viewing of an automated cupping system to aid milking on 5 December 2012.

The milking system uses leading-edge robotics and vision technology; is targeted at New Zealand's extensive pasture based batch milking of large herds (typically over 500 cows); and has been designed to retro-fit into existing rotary dairy sheds.

SML was established in 2008 and is a joint venture between Scott (61%) and Milktech Limited (39%, privately owned). All development work is conducted by Scott as contractor to SML.

A press release will be issued on 5 December 2012.

Yours faithfully

Chris Hopkins
